THREE YEARS IN REVIEW

WITH THIS ISSUE, the newly created Department of Instruction and Information publication of the Official Gazette where it was left off on December 20, 1941, by the Office of the President at which it was then being edited. The suspension of the publication on that date was brought about by the transfer of the seat of the National Government, first from Manila to Corregidor and later from Corregidor to Washington, D. C., when the Japanese Imperial Army invaded and occupied the Philippines. Notwithstanding this transfer, the Commonwealth Government did not for a moment cease to function nor did it lose its legal status under international law from the date of its removal to the United States to that of its reestablishment in Manila soon after the liberation of the City by the American forces. However, self-evident circumstances made it impossible to continue with the publication of the Gazette. In fact, there were no reasons whatsoever to justify, as in the case of many other governmental activities, the continuation of the Gazette, circumscribed as were the functions of the National Government while temporarily established on foreign shores to the achievement of definite objectives mainly concerning the prompt redemption of the Philippines from the hands of the Japanese invaders, the attainment of our independence under American protection soon after such redemption, and the speedy rehabilitation and reconstruction of our country from the ravages of war.

It was at the invitation of the President of the United States and with the legislative sanction of the National Assembly that the seat of government was transferred to Washington, D. C., on May 13, 1942. The Commonwealth Government was firmly convinced that mere military occupation of a territory does not confer sovereign rights on the invading army and that its legal status, therefore, under international law would not be changed so long as it maintained its nucleus abroad through its head, President Manuel L. Quezon and his cabinet, and by means of the emergency powers given him by the National Assembly. This view was sustained by the United States and the other 42 members of the international group known as the United Nations, which officially recognized the Philippine Constitutional Government thus established in Washington, D. C.

During its almost three-year stay in the United States capital, the Commonwealth Government set before itself, and substantially achieved, with the full cooperation of the Government of the United States, the following objectives:

- (1) To maintain the interest of the American people in the redemption of the Philippines as a sacred obligation which had been assumed by the United States;
- (2) To speed up the preparation of the necessary men, materials and plans for the reconquest of the Philippines;
- (3) To accelerate the advent of our independence;
- (4) To obtain adequate guarantees of the permanence of our political independence; and
- (5) To work for our economic rehabilitation and stability as the material foundation of our independent structure.

America's answer to our repeated appeals for redemption is the liberation of the major portion of the Philippines by the American forces under the command of General Douglas MacArthur, including the complete occupation of the City of Manila.

As to our independence with American protection, the promise made on December 28, 1941, and reiterated on August 13, 1943, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to grant it to us before 1946, was given legislative sanction when Congress approved S. J. Res. No. 93, which became law on June 29, 1944. President Quezon and other Filipino leaders of our Government in Washington requested the introduction of this Joint Resolution in the Congress of the United States and gave it their firm support until it was finally unanimously approved in both houses of Congress. So it happened that our negotiations for Philippine independence, extending over a score and two years since the first parliamentary mission headed by Manuel L. Quezon, then President of the Senate, left for the United States in 1922, were satisfactorily terminated under the authority of the Government of the Commonwealth which functioned in Washington, D. C., from May 13, 1942, to October 3, 1944.

With respect to the imperative need for the rehabilitation and reconstruction of the country, the Commonwealth Government urged the passage of the necessary legislation by the Congress of the United States. Such legislation was approved on June 29, 1944, and under its provisions a Philippine Rehabilitation Commission has been created, composed of nine Americans and nine Filipinos. It is now sitting in Washington and is investigating all the war damages and other rehabilitation needs for proper action, and is formulating plans for the future economic relations of the Philippines with the United States.

EXECUTIVE and administrative orders, proclamations, speeches and other documents herein published give a more concrete idea of the work carried out by the National Government during its stay in Washington, D. C. They reveal how President Manuel L. Quezon, who with his cabinet represented the Commonwealth Government in the States until his death on August 1, 1944, was deeply preoccupied by the problems of relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction of the Philippines after the Japanese were driven out, confident as he had always been in the ultimate victory of the American Forces of Liberation in the Pacific. On September 15, 1943, he issued an Executive Order creating a Post-War Planning Board to study and recommend, among other things, plans for relief of the population immediately upon reoccupation of the Philippines, for the rapid rehabilitation and reconstruction of the Philippine economy, for the promotion of post-war trade and other relationships between the Government of the Philippine Republic and other governments, and for the security of the Philippines after the defeat of Japan. Later on, in June, 1944, more assured than ever of the approaching liberation of the Philippines, he created by another Executive Order the Division of Civil Affairs, Philippine Army, in the Department of National Defense, empowered to exercise such functions as may be necessary to accomplish the following objectives:

(1) To effect the necessary liaison between the President of the Philippines, the Commander-in-Chief of the Southwest Pacific Area and the people of the Philippines during military operations and before normal civil government is reestablished; and

(2) To execute plans for the relief of the people of the Philippines immediately upon the landing of the military forces of the United States. President Quezon likewise created the Philippine Commonwealth Relief Committee, charged with purchasing in behalf of the Philippine Government the supplies of food, medicine, clothing and other necessities for the relief of the Filipino people. To effect the purchases with minimum delay, he authorized at the same time the initial appropriation of $5,000,000 from the general funds. The President also formed by Executive Order a Currency Committee to confer with the representatives of the Departments of the Interior, of State, of War and of the Treasury of the United States Government with the view to remedying the considerable confusion in our monetary system, resulting in the disappearance from circulation of legitimate currency, especially coins, and to arrange for the printing of new Philippine Treasury certificates and the immediate minting of subsidiary coins ready for use upon the landing of the liberating forces on Philippine soil.

But President Quezon did not concern himself only with the war situation as it affected his country and his people during his forced prolonged stay in Washington, D. C. He also paid attention to matters affecting Filipinos residing in the United States. His first Executive Order issued in that city on May 30, 1942, amending the rules and regulations governing Government pensionados, increased the pensionados' monthly allowance during the period of scholarship for board, lodging and incidentals, from $70.00 to $100.00. By another Executive Order he created a Committee on Relief for Destitute Filipinos in the United States and Hawaii. The Committee is charged with the following duties and functions:

(1) To study and pass upon all requests for financial aid from Filipinos who are destitute;

- (2) To determine the form and amount of relief that should be given to these persons; and
- (3) To aid them, through the Office of the Resident Commissioner, to obtain employment.

PRESIDENT QUEZON died in Saranac Lake in the State of New York, U. S. A. on the morning of Tuesday, August 1, 1944.

Immediately after his death Vice-President Sergio Osmeña succeeded him as President on two legal bases:

(1) By virtue of the general elections of 1941, in which he was chosen President together with President Quezon, each to serve for a term of two years; and

(2) By virtue of the extension of his term of office by the Congress of the United States in order to give President Quezon a chance to serve longer during the American régime.

PRESIDENT OSMEÑA'S first official act was to issue a proclamation designating the period from the first of August to the first of September of 1944 a state of national mourning for all citizens of the Philippines as a mark of respect to the memory of President Quezon. By a subsequent proclamation he declared August 19, 1944, which was the sixty-sixth anniversary of the birth of President Quezon, a special public holiday "so that Filipinos everywhere may go to their churches to pray for our beloved leader and hold memorial services to honor his memory and extoll his character and public service."

President Osmeña issued an Executive Order amending Executive Order No. 6-W, creating a Committee on Relief for Destitute Filipinos in the United States and Hawaii, so as to include therein Filipinos stranded in the United States on account of the war. In another Executive Order the President set aside the sum of Ten Million Pesos (P10,000,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary out of any funds of the Government of the Commonwealth not otherwise appropriated, to be used as aid for the operation of the provincial, city and municipal governments which may be reestablished upon the reoccupation of the Philippines. In Executive Order No. 20-W he prescribed instructions for the conduct of public affairs of the Commonwealth Government in the United States during his absence. According to these instructions, the Secretary of Finance shall be the representative of the President of the Philippines, and as such, he shall be charged with the conduct of the public affairs of the Commonwealth Government in the United States, with full authority to act on all matters which pertain to, or affect, the Government.

In other Executive Orders issued from the seat of Government in the Field soon after the American forces landed in Leyte in October of last year, President Osmeña:

Declared to be on active service in the Philippine Army all persons now actively serving in recognized military forces in the Philippines;

Fixed the salaries of the officers and enlisted men of the Philippine Army;

Created a Board of Inquiry to investigate charges of disloyalty to the Commonwealth of the Philippines and the United States of America in the Province of Leyte, and consider the legal problems and matters of public policy involved therein;

Amended Executive Order No. 371 of October 2, 1941, fixing the maximum selling prices of certain articles of prime necessity, and promulgating rules and regulations for the enforcement thereof;

Promulgated rules and regulations concerning currency, books and accounts of banks and their branches and agencies in the provinces, provincial, city and municipal treasuries and other government accountable offices; and Declared a debt moratorium pending action by the Commonwealth Government.

IMMEDIATELY after the reestablishment of the seat of the Government of the Commonwealth in the City of Manila on February 27, 1945, President Osmeña issued an Executive Order restoring the executive departments as they existed before the Japanese invasion, but with such modifications as the exigencies of the present situation require. The order creates nine Executive Departments, to wit: the Department of the Interior, the Department of Finance, the Department of Justice, the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, the Department of Public Works and Communications, the Department of Instruction and Information, the Department of Labor, the Department of National Defense and the Department of Health and Public Welfare. For the operation of the Government of the Commonwealth, the President appropriated by another Executive Order, out of any funds of the Commonwealth Government not otherwise appropriated for the purpose, so much of the different amounts authorized in Commonwealth Act No. 654, known as the "General Appropriation Act for the Fiscal Year Nineteen Hundred and Forty-two," enacted and approved by the National Assembly on June 21, 1941, as may correspond to the period starting from the date of the reestablishment of the Government of the Commonwealth on Philippine soil on October 23, 1944, to June 30, 1945. The President also created the Banking Division of the National Treasury, Commonwealth of the Philippines, to provide a safe banking depositary for the savings of the people, and to provide for temporary banking and loan facilities during the emergency period, so that agricultural, industrial and commercial activities may be assisted.

Three Executive Orders issued by the President on March 10, 1945, effected changes in our judiciary. The first one revives the regrouping of provinces for judicial purposes into twenty-six judicial districts as provided for under Act Numbered Four thousand seven of the Philippine Legislature, and repeals Commonwealth Act No. 544, which creates the positions of district attorneys. The second one abolishes the Court of Appeals in the interest of a more speedy administration of justice, and orders that all cases which under the law are appealable to this Court be appealed directly to the Supreme Court for final decision. By the third Executive Order the President reduces the number of officials of the Bureau of Justice to a Solicitor General and one Assistant Solicitor General "in the interest of a more simple and economical administration of justice." A fourth Executive Order issued by the President on the same date appropriates the sum of one million pesos to be expended by the Emergency Control Administrator, subject to the approval of the President of the Philippines, for civilian defense.

President Osmeña appointed the following members of his new cabinet: Tomas Confesor, as Secretary of the Interior; Jaime Hernandez, as Secretary of Finance; Delfin Jaranilla, as Secretary of Justice; Sotero Cabahug, as Secretary of Public Works and Communications; Maximo M. Kalaw, as Secretary of Instruction and Information; Tomas Cabili, as Secretary of National Defense; and Major General Basilio J. Valdes, as Secretary of Health and Public Welfare. He also appointed Ismael Mathay Commissioner of the Budget and Dr. Jose S. Reyes Secretary to the President. Brigadier General Carlos P. Romulo was reappointed Resident Commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, while Secretary of the Interior Tomas Confesor was designated Emergency Control Administrator. Secretary Confesor was also charged with the reorganization of the Government of the City of Manila.

IN A SIMPLE but impressive ceremony held in the Reception Hall of Malacañan Palace on the morning of February 27, 1945, General Douglas MacArthur turned over to President Osmeña the full powers and responsibilities of the Commonwealth Government under the Constitution. "Your country," the General said in a brief speech delivered on the occasion, "thus is again at liberty to pursue its destiny to an honored position in the family of free nations. Your capital city, cruelly punished though it be, has regained its rightful place—Citadel of Democracy in the East." Answering General MacArthur's speech, President Osmeña paid high tribute to the General as "friend and defender of our race." "General Douglas MacArthur," he declared, "will go down in history not only for his signal military successes but also for consistently following truly democratic methods in dealing with Philippine civil affairs in areas retaken from the enemy. Instead of taking advantage of military operations to maintain military government over territories already recaptured, he has been faithful in his rôle as liberator in the truest American tradition." The President concluded his speech by making an appeal for unity among our people. He said: "United and in close coöperation with the United States, we can win for ourselves and our children all the blessings of democracy, freedom and security for which we have sacrificed so much in this titanic struggle against the brutal forces of tyranny and oppression."

ON THE OCCASION of the restoration of the Commonwealth Government in the City of Manila, the President sent cables to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Hon. Herbert Lehman, director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, expressing the gratitude of the Filipino people. To Secretary Stimson he said in part: " * * * with unshaken spirit, fortified by the sympathetic understanding of the American people, they (the Filipino people) face with grim determination their immediate objectives: the vigorous prosecution of the struggle in which the United States are engaged until final victory is achieved, and the rehabilitation of the country and the relief of millions of destitute and suffering people."

FOR EXTRAORDINARY courage and valor in the face of overwhelming odds shown in Bataan and Corregidor and exceptional performance of service of the highest order to the Commonwealth of the Philippines," General Douglas MacArthur was awarded by President Osmeña the Philippine Medal of Honor, the highest award within the power of our Commonwealth Government to grant. In accepting the honor General MacArthur said: "I am deeply grateful for your action in awarding me the Medal of Valor. My sense of distinction is increased and made more poignant by a realization of the magnificent part played by Philippine troops serving under my command. I shall never wear the decoration without a feeling of pride in their accomplishment. I regard the award as symbolical of their courage and indomitable devotion to their great country."

GEneral DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, surrounded by eleven members of his staff who left Corregidor with him three years ago, raised the American flag over that island fortress last March 2. While the color guard of the 503rd Parachute Infantry Regiment stood at attention, the General ordered the Commanding Officer: "Have your troops hoist the colors and let no enemy ever haul them down."

THE NEW MEMBERS of the cabinet were inducted into office by President Osmeña in Malacañan Palace on the morning of last March 8. In a speech delivered on the occasion, the President gave a summary of the work done by the Commonwealth Government while temporarily established in Washington, D. C. during the last three years, and announced the granting by the United States of Philippine independence with American protection at an early date. The President closed his speech by proclaiming the ideals and principles which will guide the activities of the restored Commonwealth Government. One of these principles is the reestablishment in our country of "a social and political system which is founded on mutual faith, honesty and confidence and not on suspicion, corruption and fear, and in which government officials and employees are not the masters of the people but their servants, acting as necessary instrumentalities through which the public good and the individual welfare may be advanced and safeguarded."

ON MARCH 10 last, the President issued two proclamations, one concerning the City of Manila and another the Province of Leyte, declaring that both places having been freed from enemy occupation and control as of March 10, 1945, the debt moratorium established by Executive Order No. 25, as amended by Executive Order No. 32, will not apply to debts and monetary obligations contracted in said City and Province after the date of the proclamations.

THE PRESIDENT, accompanied by Brigadier General Carlos P. Romulo, Resident Commissioner to the United States, visited last March 11 the graveyard of Filipino and American war prisoners in Camp O'Donnell, Capas, Tarlac. Thousands of heroes captured in the hills of Bataan by the Japanese lie in nameless graves in Camp O'Donnell.

THE JOINT CHIEFS of Staff in Washington, D. C., announced last April 6 that General Douglas MacArthur has been placed in command of all American army forces in the Pacific theatre of war while Admiral Chester Nimitz has been selected to command all Pacific naval forces. General Henry H. Arnold will continue in command of the 20th Airforce, composed of the giant B-29s.

PRESIDENT OSMEÑA appointed Brigadier General Carlos P. Romulo, Resident Commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, Chairman of the Commonwealth delegation to the United Nations Conference in San Francisco, California. The following were appointed members of the delegation: Secretary of Instruction and Information Maximo M. Kalaw, Senator Carlos P. Garcia, Assemblyman Pedro Lopez, Assemblyman Francisco Delgado, Dr. Urbano A. Zafra, Colonel Alejandro Melchor, military and technical adviser to the President and Professor Vicente G. Simeo.

AT A MEETING held in Malacañan on the morning of last March 15, the cabinet reiterated its adherence to President Roosevelt's announced policy that all those persons who collaborated with the enemy should be removed from offices of authority and influence over the political and economic life of the country. Regarding the temporary reemployment of officials and employees who served under the Japanese régime, it was explained that the Government was compelled to do so by the pressure of circumstances that demanded the immediate reorganization of certain public offices, but that should the persons so reemployed be found to have collaborated with the enemy, they would be separated from public office immediately.

"THE CIVIL SERVICE employees are Filipinos and citizens of the Commonwealth Government who have taken the oath of allegiance and loyalty to the Commonwealth and the United States. To consider that their status should continue even after the government to which they pledged by oath to defend has been destroyed, is to my mind absurd." So wrote Secretary Maximo M. Kalaw, of the Department of Instruction and Information, to Acting Commissioner of Civil Service A. del Rosario, in answer to the latter's appeal in behalf of civil service employees banned from the reestablished Commonwealth Government for having served under the puppet government set up in the Philippines by the Japanese. "I would grant you," the Secretary continued, "that if there were only a change in the personnel in the administrative, executive, judicial or legislative branches of the government, and of the party in power, the civil service should continue. But I should like to remind the civil service employees that they are first of all Filipino citizens who should, according to their oath, be loyal to their government, to defend it if need be even with their lives." The policy of the Commonwealth Government with regard to the so-called collaborationists is based on the statement of President Roosevelt on June 29, 1944, when he signed the Joint Resolution No. 93 passed by the United States Congress, authorizing him to give independence to the Philippines ahead of 1946. One of the two conditions that he imposed is that "those who have collaborated with the enemy must be removed from authority and influence over the political and economic life of the country." According to Secretary Kalaw, minor employees who do mere routine work are not included in the prohibition. Those that fall within it are men who held positions of influence and decided policies.

IN A LETTER to Secretary Maximo M. Kalaw, of the Department of Instruction and Information, Secretary Jaime Hernandez, of the Department of Finance, now in Washington, D. C., informs that the Technical Committee to the President for the planning and preparation of relief and rehabilitation in the Philippines, has been studying for the last six months the ways and means of replacing the loss of Philippine work animals with farm machinery and equipment that may be imported from the United States. Two specialists attached to the Committee, according to him, are at present attending the Ford-Ferguson Management School at San Antonio, Texas, U. S. A., for the purpose of studying the operation, maintenance and repair of Ford-Ferguson tractors and determining the suitability of their use on Philippine soil. Secretary Hernandez also informs that a request has been made to the War Department in Washington, D. C., for the procurement and shipment to the Philippines of vegetable seeds and farm hand-tools.

INSTALLING Mr. Juan Chioco as the first Civil Governor of the Province of Nueva Ecija under the reestablished Commonwealth Government, Secretary of the Interior Tomas Confesor told a crowd of people at Cabanatuan on the afternoon of last March 11 that the Commonwealth was determined to restore law and order in the liberated areas and that it was his full expectation that all Filipinos would live under

But I should like to remind the civil service employees that they are first of all Filipino citizens who should, according to their oath, be loyal to their government, to defend it if need be even with their lives." The policy of the Commonwealth Government with regard to the so-called collaborationists is based on the statement of President Roosevelt on June 29, 1944, when he signed the Joint Resolution No. 93 passed by the United States Congress, authorizing him to give independence to the Philippines ahead of 1946. One of the two conditions that he imposed is that "those who have collaborated with the enemy must be removed from authority and influence over the political and economic life of the country." According to Secretary Kalaw, minor employees who do mere routine work are not included in the prohibition. Those that fall within it are men who held positions of influence and decided policies.

IN A LETTER to Secretary Maximo M. Kalaw, of the Department of Instruction and Information, Secretary Jaime Hernandez, of the Department of Finance, now in Washington, D. C., informs that the Technical Committee to the President for the planning and preparation of relief and rehabilitation in the Philippines, has been studying for the last six months the ways and means of replacing the loss of Philippine work animals with farm machinery and equipment that may be imported from the United States. Two specialists attached to the Committee, according to him, are at present attending the Ford-Ferguson Management School at San Antonio, Texas, U. S. A., for the purpose of studying the operation, maintenance and repair of Ford-Ferguson tractors and determining the suitability of their use on Philippine soil. Secretary Hernandez also informs that a request has been made to the War Department in Washington, D. C., for the procurement and shipment to the Philippines of vegetable seeds and farm hand-tools.

INSTALLING Mr. Juan Chioco as the first Civil Governor of the Province of Nueva Ecija under the reestablished Commonwealth Government, Secretary of the Interior Tomas Confesor told a crowd of people at Cabanatuan on the afternoon of last March 11 that the Commonwealth was determined to restore law and order in the liberated areas and that it was his full expectation that all Filipinos would live under the law. Singling out for condemnation the well-known Japanese practice of confiscating private property, he warned that the government, with all the force behind it, would not permit any attempt to revive such practice. "Don't use violence," he said, "for if you do, we will meet violence with violence."

HAVING BEEN informed that a group of market vendors proposed to go on strike on account of the measures adopted by the Government to eradicate the black market in Manila, Secretary of the Interior Tomas Confesor, in a statement issued last March 20, warned that no strike would detain the authorities in carrying out their program to this effect and that he would use "every means in my power to prevent and stop any disturbance of law and order within the City and I would deal sternly and firmly with any lawless elements." "The welfare and well-being of the people of Manila are over and above the selfish intentions of any group of individuals," he declared.

IN COMPLIANCE with the provisions of Executive Order No. 34, issued by the President on March 10, 1945, vehicle traffic in the Philippines, beginning June 1, 1945, shall be on the right, instead of the left, side of the road, thus conforming with the practice of driving obtaining in most countries of the world. Main reason for making the change is the fact that during the present emergency the great majority of the motor vehicles of the United States Army used on the roadways in the Philippines are right-hand driven, and the drivers thereof are accustomed to driving on the right side of the road. The new regulation affects both motor and animal driven vehicles.

THE DEPARTMENT of Instruction and Information presented a welcome program in Malacañan grounds in honor of Irving Berlin, noted American composer, on the morning of last March 28. "Heaven Watch the Philippines," Mr. Berlin's newest song, written during a six-week stay in Leyte and dedicated to General Douglas MacArthur in commemoration of his liberation of the Philippines, was introduced during the program. The composer himself and a group of Filipino schoolchildren sang the piece. Mr. Berlin made formal presentation of the scroll of the new song to the Philippine Commonwealth Government, Secretary of the Interior Tomas Confesor accepting it in the latter's name.

TREASURY WARRANTS issued by the Government of the Commonwealth of the Philippines before the occupation of Manila by the Japanese Army may now be registered by their holders with the Registration Section, Department of Finance, corner of Aviles and San Rafael Streets.

GOVERNMENT office hours are from 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 m. and from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m. (Daylight Saving Time) on week days including Saturdays, according to an Executive Order issued by the President.

Hereinbelow are the last Executive Orders (Nos. 385 to 400) issued by the President of the Philippines before the transfer of the seat of the Commonwealth Government from Manila to Washington, D. C., on May 13, 1942. Following them is the new series of Executive Orders (except Nos. 4 and 18) and proclamations issued, first in Washington, D. C., from May 13, 1942, until the reestablishment of the Commonwealth Government in Manila on February 27, 1945, and then in Manila from this latter date to the present.

WHEREAS the interest of justice requires that those persons under detention for alleged violations of the law of the Commonwealth of the Philippines be promptly brought before the proper court of justice for trial;

WHEREAS the unification of our people, the overwhelming majority of whom have been steadfastly loyal, for the purposes of restoring the normal processes of our political and economic life and promptly establishing the Republic of the Philippines upon indestructible foundations is a paramount national need in this hour of our liberation;

WHEREAS, for the purpose of strengthening the national unity, the legal problems and matters of policy involved in the investigation and disposition of the cases of citizens who may be accused of disloyalty during the Japanese occupation should be thoroughly studied in order that a basic policy may be established for dealing with such cases in accordance with law and with an understanding of the conditions which existed during the prolonged period of enemy occupation;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Sergio Osmeña, President of the Philippines, by virtue of the powers vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the Philippines, do hereby create a Board of Inquiry, composed of a chairman and four members to be appointed by the President, to investigate charges of disloyalty in the Province of Leyte and consider the legal problems and matters of public policy involved therein.

1. The duties and functions of this Board will be:

(a) To ascertain upon what authority and what specific charges certain persons are now being detained in the Provincial Jail of the Province of Leyte on suspicion of having committed acts of disloyalty to the Commonwealth of the Philippines and the United States of America which constitute a violation of the laws of the Commonwealth.

(b) To investigate the validity of such charges as to the law and the facts involved.

(c) To allow such persons the right to be present at such investigations, to be heard by themselves or by counsel, and to present witnesses on their behalf. Hearings of the Board shall be open to the public.

(d) Upon the termination of its labors, to submit to the President a report, and in its discretion to submit current reports, of its findings and conclusions, and at frequent intervals to recommend to him such action as may be deemed just and proper in each particular case that has been heard.

2. The Board of Inquiry will prepare such rules and regulations for its operation as may be necessary. It is hereby authorized to direct the appearance of witnesses with or without documents, administer oaths, and take testimony relevant to its investigation. It is also authorized to call upon any office, official or employee of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, for any necessary assistance in carrying out its functions and, with the approval of the corresponding Head of Department, such assistance shall be given.

3. The chairman and members of this Board will receive compensation in the form of per diem at the rate of ten pesos (₱10.00) a day for each day of service actually rendered, except those who are already employed by the Commonwealth of the Philippines who shall serve without additional compensation. Within the limit of such funds as may be set aside or appropriated for the purpose, the Board may employ the necessary personnel and make provisions for equipment, supplies, materials, travel and other services.

4. Inasmuch as justice requires and the Constitution of the Commonwealth prescribes that in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have a speedy trial, the Board is enjoined to execute its functions with the greatest dispatch compatible with safeguarding the rights of the accused and the interests of the State. Records of proceedings will be as brief as possible and need not be verbatim. In the taking of evidence only that testimony will be of record which is deemed essential by the Board.

EXECUTIVE ORDER No. 25

PROMULGATING RULES AND REGULATIONS CONCERNING CURRENCY, BOOKS AND ACCOUNTS OF BANKS AND THEIR BRANCHES AND AGEN-

CIES IN THE PROVINCES, PROVINCIAL, CITY
AND MUNICIPAL TREASURIES AND OTHER GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTABLE OFFICES AND DEBT MORATORIUM.

WHEREAS it is essential that the financial and monetary structure of the Commonwealth of the Philippines be maintained on a sound basis.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Sergio Osmeña, President of the Philippines, by virtue of the powers vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, do hereby promulgate the following rules and regulations concerning currency, books and accounts and debt moratorium for all areas free from enemy occupation and control throughout the Philippines.

I. CURRENCY

1. The new Victory Series of Philippine Treasury Certificates (Victory Pesos) and the Philippine coins identical to pre-war issue now in circulation will be legal tender.
2. All pre-war Philippine Treasury Certificates and coins will continue to be legal tender and may be exchanged at par for the Victory Pesos if so desired by the holders.
3. The rate of exchange will be two Victory Pesos for one United States dollar. Transactions at any other rate are prohibited.
4. For each province liberated from the enemy, an Emergency Currency Committee will be appointed by the United States Army and the Commonwealth Government to study, investigate and report on the bona-fide emergency currencies issued by duly authorized currency boards. The Committee will ascertain the extent of the authority given to such boards, the amount of emergency currency actually printed and issued, and will recommend as soon as possible the redemption of the currencies found to be legally issued. In case it is found out that in a given province more emergency currencies were in circulation than the amount actually authorized to be issued, the Committee will recommend what action shall be taken: Provided, however, That counterfeit emergency currencies will not be redeemed.
5. The printing and issuance of additional emergency currencies are hereby prohibited.
6. Japanese currency, Philippine National Bank Notes (except duly authorized emergency issues), Notes of the Bank of the Philippine Islands, New Central Bank Notes and unauthorized emergency currencies are not legal tender. Transactions in these currencies are prohibited.

II. BANKS, TREASURIES AND OTHER
ACCOUNTABLE OFFICES

1. The books of banks, their branches and agencies in the provinces, provincial, city and municipal treasuries and other government accountable offices will be sealed forthwith and existing accounts frozen, as of the date the province, city, or municipality is liberated from enemy occupation and control, pending further action by the Government. All books, accounts and previous records as closed shall become inactive, filed and preserved for reference and other purposes as may be required.

2. Provincial and municipal treasurers and other accountable officials will open new books of account as soon as their respective offices are duly reconstituted, observing strictly the existing accounting laws, rules and regulations pertaining to accounts and accounting system of the Commonwealth of the Philippines.

3. Provincial treasurers will accept for safekeeping new savings deposits in pre-war Philippine Treasury Certificates and Victory Pesos. Withdrawals in cash only of not less than one peso may be made from each savings account upon presentation of the deposit book. No interest will accrue on such deposit. In addition to opening new savings accounts, provincial treasuries will provide facilities for exchanging United States dollars for Victory Pesos.

III. DEBT MORATORIUM

1. Payment of all debts and other monetary obligations contracted after December 31, 1941, except debts and other monetary obligations entered into in any area after declaration by Executive Order that such area has been freed from enemy occupation and control, is temporarily suspended pending action by the Commonwealth Government.

DESIGNATING THURSDAY, THE TWENTY-THIRD
DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1944, AS A DAY OF NA-TIONAL THANKSGIVING.

For the information of the people of the Philippines, I hereby publish the following proclamation of the President of the United States setting aside, in accordance with custom, Thursday, November twenty-third, nineteen hundred and forty-four, as a day of general thanksgiving:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

"In this year of liberation, which has seen so many millions freed from tyrannical rule, it is fitting that we give thanks with special fervor to our Heavenly Father for the mercies we have received individually and as a nation and for the blessings he has restored, through the victories of our arms and those of our Allies, to His children, in other lands.

"For the preservation of our way of life from the threat of destruction, for the unity of spirit which has kept our nation strong, for our abiding faith in freedom, and for the promise of an enduring peace, we should lift up our hearts in Thanksgiving. For the harvest that has sustained us and in its fullness, brought succor to other peoples, for the bounty of our soil, which has produced the sinews of war for the protection of our liberties, and for a multitude of private blessings, known only in our hearts, we should give united thanks to God.

"To the end that we may bear more earnest witness to our gratitude to Almighty God, I suggest a nationwide reading of the Holy Scriptures during the period from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas. Let every man of every creed go to his own version of the Scriptures for a renewed and strengthening contact with those eternal truths and majestic principles which have inspired such measure of true greatness as this nation has achieved.

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in concert with the joint resolution of the Congress approved December 26, 1941, do hereby proclaim Thursday, the twenty-third day of November, 1944, a day of national Thanksgiving. And I call upon the people of the United States to observe it by bending every effort to hasten the day of final victory and by offering to God our devout gratitude for His goodness to us and to our fellow men.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington this first day of November, in the year of Our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-four, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-ninth.

"Acting Secretary of State"

In line with the proclamation above quoted, I do hereby proclaim Thursday, the twenty-third of November, nineteen hundred and forty-four, as a day of thanksgiving in the Philippines and enjoin the inhabitants of the nation to offer thanks to Almighty God on that day for the strength and fortitude with which He blessed the Filipino people during their darkest days and for the arrival of the forces of liberation on Philippine soil to free the country. And I call on the people of the Philippines to observe the day by renewing their pledge to continue their unrelenting fight against the forces of evil until victory is won so that His spirit of justice, righteousness and charity may again reign supreme for all men.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth of the Philippines to be affixed.

HISTORICAL PAPERS AND DOCUMENTS

Here are the texts of Joint Resolutions Nos. 93 and 94, of the Congress of the United States, advancing the date for the granting of Philippine independence and creating a Filipino Rehabilitation Commission.

(PUBLIC LAW 380—78TH CONGRESS)
(CHAPTER 322—2D SESSION)
(S. J. RES. 93)

JOINT RESOLUTION

DECLARING THE POLICY OF THE CONGRESS, WITH RESPECT TO THE INDEPENDENCE OF THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS, AND FOR OTHER PUR-POSES.

WHEREAS, on December 7, 1941, while the people of the Philippine Islands were peacefully engaged in achieving for themselves their complete political independence in the manner mutually agreed upon by the Government of the United States and the people of the Philippine Islands, which independence was to become fully effective July 4, 1946, the Japanese in a wholly unprovoked, wantonly treacherous, and surprise attack on the people of the Philippines and of the United States, did by military invasion interrupt these orderly and mutually agreeable processes for complete independence of the Philippines; and

WHEREAS the American and Filipino troops made a valiant and courageous defense to the aggression of the Japanese invader and were overwhelmed only by the surprise and superior numbers and equipment of the enemy; and

WHEREAS the Japanese are now in possession and control of the land, peoples, business, communication, and institutions of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, and because of these circumstances the Filipino people are denied the free use and employment of the processes and political institutions jointly established by the Government of the United States and the Commonwealth of the Philippines for the transaction of private and public business and for the maintenance of liberty, law and order, and justice in the Philippine Islands; and

WHEREAS by this possession and invasion the Japanese have attempted to frustrate the free processes to independence in the Philippines by substituting therefor their own puppet government which was conceived in intrigue, born in coercion, and reared primarily for the purpose of Japanese selfishness and aggrandizement and not to achieve the independence and freedom of the Filipino people; and

WHEREAS the Government of the United States has solemnly guaranteed to the people of the Philippine Islands the right to be completely free and independent and to select by a free ballot, without any kind of inducement or coercion whatsoever, those who shall hold the elective offices in such government and exercise the power and authority thereof, which solemn guarantees have been temporarily made impossible of fulfillment due to the wantonly treacherous and surprise attack on the free people of the Philippine Islands; and

WHEREAS because of the valiant resistance by the Philippine people, which is even now continuing while the invader occupies parts of the Philippines, and because of the long and unbroken record of loyalty of the Filipino people, both to the cause of complete independence for themselves and to the sovereignty of the United States while they have been under our flag, and because they have abundantly demonstrated their will to independence through the processes mutually agreed upon by the people of the Philippines and the Government of the United States, and their will to resist all outside invasion and encroachment, which seek to destroy or set aside their march to independence, and because they have abundantly proved their capacity to govern themselves in an enlightened, progressive and democratic manner; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled, That it is hereby declared to be the policy of the Congress that the United States shall drive the treacherous, invading Japanese from the Philippine Islands, restore as quickly as possible the orderly and free democratic processes of government to the Filipino people, and thereupon establish the complete independence of the Philippine Islands as a separate and self-governing nation.

SEC. 2. After negotiation with the President of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, or the President of the Filipino Republic, the President of the United States is hereby authorized by such means as he find appropriate to withhold or to acquire and to retain such bases, necessary appurtenances to such bases, and the rights incident thereto, in addition to any provided for by the Act of March 24, 1934, as he may deem necessary for the mutual protection of the Philippine Islands and of the United States.

SEC. 3. In order speedily to effectuate the policy declared in section 1, the President of the United States is hereby authorized, after proclaiming that constitutional processes and normal functions of government have been restored in the Philippine Islands and after consultation with the President of the Commonwealth of the Philippines to advance the date of the independence of the Philippine Islands by proclaiming their independence as a separate and self-governing nation prior to July 4, 1946.

SEC. 4. Meanwhile the resources of the United States, both of men and materials, are pledged for continued use to redeem the Philippines from the invader and to speed the day of ultimate and complete independence for the people of the Philippine Islands.

Approved June 29, 1944.

JOINT RESOLUTION

TO AMEND SECTION 13 OF PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE ACT, AS AMENDED, ESTABLISHING THE FILIPINO REHABILITATION COMMISSION, DEFINING ITS POWERS AND DUTIES, AND OTHER PURPOSES.

Within ten days thereafter the ranking member of the Senate appointees and the ranking member of the Filipino appointees shall jointly call a meeting of the Commission to be held in the Capitol of the United States for the purpose of organization. In cases of death or resignation of a member, such vacancy shall be filled by the original appointing power.

(c) To formulate recommendations based upon such investigations and for future trade relations between the United States and the independent Philippine Republic when established and to consider the extension of the present or heretofore agreed upon trade relations or otherwise for a period of years to make adjustments for the period of occupancy by the Japanese in order to reestablish trade relations as provided for in the original Independence Act.

(d) The Commission is authorized to employ expert legal and clerical assistance, to establish offices in the Philippine Islands and in the United States, and to make rules and regulations for the transaction of its business pertinent to the provisions of this Act.

The compensation of the Philippine members of the Commission shall be determined by the Government of the Philippine Commonwealth. The United States, as herein provided, shall compensate the members of the Commission who represent it, and the Commonwealth of the Philippines, or the Filipino Republic, as the case may be, shall compensate the members of the Commission appointed by it or them. Otherwise, the expenses of the Commission shall be equally borne by the United States and the Commonwealth of the Philippines or the Filipino Republic, as the case may be.

SEC. 2. For the purpose of carrying on its duties, there is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary.

Approved June 29, 1944.

Statement of President Franklin D. Roosevelt upon signing S. J. Resolutions Nos. 93 and 94, on June 29, 1944.

I have signed today two Joint Resolutions of Congress respecting the Philippines. The first of these resolutions lays down a policy for the granting of independence and for the acquisition of bases adequate to provide for the mutual protection of the United States and the Philippine Islands.

In that resolution it is declared to be the policy of the Congress "that the United States shall drive the treacherous, invading Japanese from the Philippine Islands, restore as quickly as possible the orderly, free democratic processes of government to the Filipino people and thereupon establish the complete independence of the Philippine Islands as a separate self-governing nation." The measure makes it possible to proclaim independence as soon as practicable after constitutional processes and normal functions of government have been restored in the Philippines.

It is contemplated that as soon as conditions warrant, civil government will be set up under constitutional officers. It will be their duty forthwith to take emergency measures to alleviate the physical and economic hardships of the Philippine people, and to prepare the Commonwealth to receive and exercise the independence which we have promised them. The latter includes two tasks of great importance: Those who have collaborated with the enemy must be removed from authority and influence over the political and economic life of the country, and the democratic form of government guaranteed in the constitution of the Philippines must be restored for the benefit of the people of the Islands.

On the problem of bases, the present Organic Act permitted acquisition only of naval bases and fueling stations, a situation wholly inadequate to meet the conditions of modern warfare. The measure approved today will permit the acquisition of air and land bases in addition to naval bases and fueling stations. I have been informed that this action is most welcome to Commonwealth authorities, and that they will gladly cooperate in the establishment and maintenance of bases both as a restored Commonwealth and as an independent nation. By this we shall have an outstanding example of coöperation designed to prevent a recurrence of armed aggression and to assure the peaceful use of a great ocean by those in pursuit of peaceful ends.

The second Joint Resolution signed today brings into effect the Joint Economic Commission first organized in the present Organic Act, and enlarges its scope to include consideration of proposals for the economic and financial rehabilitation of the Philippines.

We are ever mindful of the heroic rôle of the Philippines and their people in the present conflict. Theirs is the only substantial area and theirs the only substantial population under the American flag to suffer lengthy invasion by the enemy. History will attest the heroic resistance of the combined armies of the United States and the Philippines in Luzon, Cebu, Iloilo, and other islands of the archipelago. Our character as a nation will be judged for years to come by the human understanding and the physical efficiency with which we help in the immense task of rehabilitating the Philippines. The Resolution creates the Philippine Rehabilitation Commission whose functions shall be to study all aspects of the problem and after due investigation report its recommendations to the President of the United States and the Congress, and to the President and the Congress of the Philippines.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

Speech delivered by General Douglas MacArthur upon turning over to President Sergio Osmeña the full powers and responsibilities of the Commonwealth Government under the Constitution at a ceremony held in the Reception Hall of Malacañan Palace on the morning of February 27, 1945.

Mr. PRESIDENT:

More than three years have elapsed—years of bitterness, struggle and sacrifice—since I withdrew our forces and installations from this beautiful city that, open and undefended, its churches, monuments and cultural centers, might in accordance with the rules of warfare, be spared the violence of military ravage. The enemy would not have it so and much that I sought to preserve has been unnecessarily destroyed by his desperate action at bay but by these ashes he has wantonly fixed the future pattern of his doom.

Then we were but a small force struggling to stem the advance of overwhelming hordes treacherously hurled against us, behind the mask of professed friendship and international good-will. That struggle was not in vain! God has indeed blessed our arms! The girded and unleashed power of America supported by our Allies turned the tide of battle in the Pacific and resulted in an unbroken series of crushing defeats upon the enemy culminating in the redemption of your soil and the liberation of your people. My country has kept the faith!

These soldiers have come here as an army of free men, dedicated, with your people, to the cause of human liberty and committed to the task of destroying those evil forces that have sought to suppress it by brutality of the sword. An army of free men that has brought your people once again under democracy's banner, to rededicate their churches, long desecrated, to the glory of God and public worship; to reopen their schools to liberal education; to till the soil and reap its harvest without fear of confiscation; to reestablish their industries that they may again enjoy the profit from the sweat of their own toil, and to restore the sanctity and happiness of their homes unafraid of violent intrusion.

Thus to millions of your now liberated people comes the opportunity to pledge themselves—their hearts, their minds, and their hands—to the task of building a new and stronger nation—a nation consecrated in the blood nobly shed that this day might be—a nation dedicated to making imperishable those sacred liberties for which we have fought and many have died.

On behalf of my Government I now solemnly declare, Mr. President, the full powers and responsibilities under the Constitution restored to the Commonwealth whose seat is here reestablished as provided by law.

Your country thus is again at liberty to pursue its destiny to an honored position in the family of free nations. Your capital city, cruelly punished though it be, has regained its rightful place—Citadel of Democracy in the East.

President Osmeña's Reply:

This is an historic event in an historic city. From the time our Malay ancestors founded it more than eight centuries ago, colonial powers have fought for its conquest and domination. The Spaniards, the Dutch, the English, a Chinese pirate, our revolutionary fathers, have all vied with each other and shed blood for its possession; because its conquest has always meant the ultimate control of the entire Archipelago. But today's event is different from any of the previous conquests and victories. The present victory of American arms is not a victory for power, control or domination, but a victory for freedom, democracy and independence.

In sharing with you today the exultation over the triumph of American arms, let us bow our heads in reverent memory of our sacred dead and the dead of our Allies, whose lives are the forfeit that these, our liberties, might be restored. We mourn the destruction of our once beautiful capital city of Manila and the murder of thousands of innocent people by the Japanese vandals, but this latest dastardly act of a savage enemy which has aroused the conscience of an outraged world should steel us to the firm resolve to continue the fight with every ounce of our strength until he shall have been completely vanquished.

To President Roosevelt who, in our grim days in Corregidor and Bataan, solemnly pledged to us in the name of the American people, the men and resources of the United States for our liberation, this day must be also a day of happiness over a pledge fulfilled. We shall be forever grateful to him and to the American people.

To General MacArthur, this campaign has been a crusade. Friend and defender of our race, he never lost faith in the spiritual strength of our people. In this crusade, he is finishing the noble work begun by his illustrious father, General Arthur MacArthur who, on August 13, 1898, successfully led another American Army to free Manila from a European power. General Douglas MacArthur will go down in history not only for his signal military successes but also for consistently following truly democratic methods in dealing with Philippine civil affairs in areas retaken from the enemy. Instead of taking advantage of military operations to maintain military government over territories already recaptured, he has been faithful in his rôle as liberator in the truest American tradition. Thus, forty-eight hours after the occupation of Tacloban by the American forces, he turned over the functions of government to our Commonwealth. And now, in this City of Manila, he is following the same procedure.

To all the gallant members of the United States Forces, I bespeak the immeasurable indebtedness, the highest admiration, and the eternal gratitude of our people for their victorious accomplishments. They have come as brothers-in-arms enlisted in and dedicated to the sacred cause of restoring our liberties.

The time has come when the world should know that when our forces surrendered in Bataan and Corregidor, resistance to the enemy was taken up by the people itself—resistance which was inarticulate and disorganized at its inception but which grew from day to day and from island to island, until it broke out into an open warfare against the enemy.

The fight against the enemy was truly a people's war because it counted with the wholehearted support of the masses. From the humble peasant to the barrio school teacher, from the volunteer guard to the women's auxiliary service units, from the loyal local official to the barrio folk—each and every one of these contributed his share in the great crusade for liberation.

The guerrillas knew that without the support of the civilian population, they could not survive. Whole towns and villages dared enemy reprisal to oppose the hated in-vader openly or give assistance to the underground movement. It is thus that the Filipino people drew the ire of the Japanese who has never followed the rules of civilized warfare. And now his conduct towards the civilian population has become more cruel and brutal, embittered as he is by his failure to enlist the support of the people. For this reason, it is imperative that the war against him be prosecuted all over the country relentlessly and with dispatch in order that the people's agony may not be prolonged and precious human life may be salvaged.

As I take over the civil functions of the Commonwealth Government in our country, I cannot but pause in all humility, for guidance and inspiration before the figures of Jose Rizal for his patriotism, Andres Bonifacio for his indomitable courage, Apolinario Mabini for his farsighted statesmanship, and Manuel L. Quezon for his devotion to the cause of independence.

That no time may be lost in the complete restoration of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, the Executive and Judicial branches will be reestablished with utmost vigor and dispatch and I now call upon all the duly elected members of our Congress who have remained steadfast in their allegiance to our Government during the period of enemy occupation, to be in readiness to meet in Manila as soon as conditions permit for the reestablishment of the Legislative branch.

I am fully cognizant that problems of great national significance must be faced immediately. The reestablishment of law and order in areas already liberated, the reopening of schools, the reorganization of the government, both national and local, are among the complicated problems that have arisen as a consequence of enemy occupation. Foremost among these problems is that of relief and rehabilitation, the urgency of which cannot be overemphasized.

This war has not only caused untold misery and suffering to the individual; it has also brought about wanton destruction, economic dislocation and financial bankruptcy to the nation at large. Farms and industries have to be rehabilitated; banks and credit institutions have to be reopened; roads and bridges have to be repaired; schools and hospitals have to be rebuilt; destroyed and damaged properties, both public and private, have either to be rehabilitated or indemnified. The legitimate claim of the common laborer and of the small farmer who has lost his only work animal and nipa hut must be given preferential attention.

So that these manifold problems may be faced with promptness and energy, I shall enlist the assistance of all those possessing not only proven ability and loyalty but also the confidence and trust of the people. In Leyte, as a recognition of the guerrillas who so valiantly fought the Japanese, I appointed Col. Ruperto Kangleon as the Acting Governor of that province. Today I have the pleasure to announce that, as a tribute to the civilian elements of our country who resisted the enemy with courage and fortitude, I have chosen Governor Tomas Confesor as the ranking member of my Cabinet, appointing him Secretary of the Interior, and in charge of the reorganization of the City of Manila.

Our independence is a settled question. Our five decades of consistent struggles, in peace and war, have come to a definite, successful end. Our government, when in exile, was considered as possessing the attributes of an independent nation. It is a member of the United Nations. We have President Roosevelt's word that when normal conditions have returned, law and order reestablished, and democratic processes restored, our request for the advancement of the date of independence will be granted. I hope this can be accomplished on August 13, 1945, the forty-seventh anniversary of the landing of the American forces in Manila. Thus Occupation Day will become Philippine Independence Day.

The gravity of our new problems demands the collective effort of all the people. The government cannot undertake to solve them alone. It needs the support of the people—a united people. More than ever before, now that the rapid advance of our forces is widening its field of action, the government needs a united popular support to enable it to undertake successfully its tremendous tasks. Not by dissension and bickerings, not by resort to violence and lawlessness can we serve the national interest. It would be tragic indeed if at this last state of our crucial struggle for nationhood, we should fall apart and be divided against ourselves. We have had enough misfortunes and sufferings in this war; we cannot bear any more. To plunge ourselves into the abyss of disunion would be suicidal.

As the head of your duly constituted government, I therefore appeal to you, my people, to remain united. I urge you to forget petty political differences, to bury the hatreds and animosities engendered by the struggle, to obey the rule of law, justice and reason, and to remember that we all belong to one common country, our beloved Philippines. United we will continue assisting effectively in the successful prosecution of the war and in the rehabilitation of our country. United we can speedily achieve the full restoration of the constitutional processes of our government, disrupted by the enemy. United and in close co-operation with the United States, we can win for ourselves and our children all the blessings of democracy, freedom and security for which we have sacrificed so much in this titanic struggle against the brutal forces of tyranny and oppression.

Below are the texts of cables sent by President Osmeña to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and the Hon. Herbert Lehman, Director General of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, on the occasion of the reestablishment of the Commonwealth Government:

MANILA, February 28, 1945

HON. HENRY L. STIMSON
Secretary of War
Washington, D. C.

On the occasion of the restoration of the Commonwealth Government in the City of Manila, allow me to express our deepest gratitude to you whose contribution to this happy result is highly appreciated. Emerging from three long years of enslavement, the Filipino people find their number decimated, a large proportion of their homes and their property destroyed. Nevertheless, with unshaken spirit fortified by the sympathetic understanding of the American people they face with grim determination their immediate objectives: the vigorous prosecution of the struggle in which the United Nations are engaged until final victory is achieved and the rehabilitation of the country and the relief of millions of destitute and suffering people.

OSMEÑA

MANILA, February 28, 1945

Hon. HERBERT LEHMAN
Director General
United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration
Washington, D. C.

On the reestablishment of the Government of the Philippines within this ruined capital city we find ourselves face to face with problems of relief and rehabilitation of staggering proportions. Thousands and thousands of families are without shelter and in rags, millions are facing hunger and starvation. When the extent of our needs is definitely ascertained I shall communicate with you knowing as I do your eagerness to give us a helping hand.

SERGIO OSMEÑA

Hereinbelow is published the text of the speech delivered by His Excellency Sergio Osmeña, President of the Philippines, on the occasion of the induction into office of the members of his new Cabinet on March 8, 1945:

Today I have inducted into office the members of my new Cabinet. I wish to take advantage of this occasion when the heads of our various executive departments are installed in their posts, to summarize in rough outline the developments of the war during the last three years as they affected the functioning of our Commonwealth Government and the carrying out of the independence program as agreed upon between the United States and the Philippines. I wish also to lay down the basic principles that will guide us as we reestablish the Commonwealth Government in our capital city.

I would like my co-workers in the government to always bear in mind two cardinal thoughts: First—That there should always be a close relationship between the people and their government, and to achieve this the government must take the people into its confidence. Second—That our government as it is today, is the product of Philippine-American collaboration and that every effort should be exerted to maintain and foster closer relationship between the two peoples.

The Japanese occupation of the Philippines was not only a military invasion. It was also an ideological and cultural invasion. It was an attempt to foist on our people the invader's totalitarian ideas, his spirit of conquest and exploitation, his theories of the superiority of the Yamato race, his way of life.

The Filipinos soon found this out, and closing their ears to the alluring promises of the enemy, put up a brave and determined opposition. They continued the struggle even after organized military resistance, so gallantly maintained by American and Filipino soldiers, had to cease before the overwhelming numerical superiority of the enemy.

Now that the veil of secrecy imposed by military necessity surrounding the Philippines has been lifted, the outside world has obtained glimpses of the brave and heroic deeds of our guerrillas, the intrepid exponents of popular resistance. All honor to these soldiers of liberty who brilliantly continued the fight of the heroes of Bataan. It would be an error, however, to believe that the struggle was limited to the sphere of action of the guerrilleros. The fountain springs were wider and deeper—they were in the very soul of the people itself. Coming from the ranks of the people, the guerrillas were in reality the people's army. For this reason, the enemy, inherently despotic and cruel, laid violent hands on the people. But in spite of his repressive measures, resistance persisted all over the country—on the plains as in the mountains, in the population centers as in the remote barrios, in the northernmost islands, in the southernmost tip of the country. It was the common will of the people; it was the entire nation, resolved to oppose, at any cost, domination by the invader.

Throughout three long years of misery and suffering, of persecution and sacrifices, the Filipino people remained faithful to their ideals. The military control by the enemy in certain areas, especially near the coasts, did not for a moment break the absolute and complete moral resistance of the people through the length and breadth of the land.

To represent this will of the people and to act on their behalf abroad, and especially in the United States, the highest officials of your constitutional government accepted the invitation of the President of the United States to evacuate Corregidor, transferring the seat of Government to Washington, D. C. This step was authorized by an Act of the National Assembly. The Commonwealth officials realized that so long as we maintained the nucleus of the Commonwealth Government abroad, through its head, the President and his Cabinet, and by means of the emergency powers given him by the National Assembly, our legal status under international law would not be changed, even if the enemy were able militarily to occupy all of the Philippine territory. It is well known that mere military occupation of a territory does not confer sovereign rights on the invading army. Thus, despite the Japanese invasion, our Constitutional Government was not only saved from destruction, but continued to function in Washington, D. C. It was officially recognized by the United States and the other 42 members of the important international group known as the United Nations.

Working closely with the Government of the United States, your Government, during its stay in that country, set before itself the following objectives:

1. To maintain the interest of the American people in the redemption of the Philippines as a sacred obligation which had been assumed by the United States;
2. To speed up the preparation of the necessary men, material and plans for the reconquest of the Philippines;
3. To accelerate the advent of our independence;
4. To obtain adequate guarantees of the permanence of our political independence;
5. To work for our economic rehabilitation and stability as the material foundation of our independent structure.

All these objectives have been substantially achieved.

The successful landing of the liberating forces under the command of General MacArthur in Leyte, Mindoro, Lingayen, Zambales, Batangas, Bataan and Corregidor, followed by the complete occupation of the City of Manila, represents a partial but eloquent reply to our appeals to the United States for aid in our redemption. The might of America which has destroyed in a few weeks all the power built up by Japan in years will continue to be employed until every vestige of the invasion has disappeared from our soil.

We were on the road to independence in accordance with the program agreed upon between the United States and the Philippines when Japan treacherously attacked us, bent on taking away that freedom from us. The leaders of your government have taken the necessary steps in the United States so that the realization of this independence program would not be delayed in spite of the war. Not only is the speedy realization of this program already assured, but we have obtained a new and important concession from the United States: the formal pledge that our independence will be guaranteed.

Having been a member during the last twenty years of various Philippine missions sent to the United States, I may say that during our negotiations for independence with the leaders of the two principal parties in the United States, we had never before found any interest among them in the protection of our independence, once granted. The best that we heard from our sympathizers was that since we wanted to be independent, and since independence had been promised, it would be given to us; but once given, our political connection with the United States would be definitely terminated. This aroused in the minds of many of us serious concern as to the future of our independent Philippines. Living in the Orient, surrounded by countries with enormous populations, some of them possessing the spirit of aggression and conquest, never in the past had we discovered a completely satisfactory answer to the question frequently addressed to us as to how we could assure the inviolability of our territory against aggression from a first-class power. It will be recalled in this connection that after our revolutions of 1896 and 1898, when our people succeeded in establishing a republican government in Malolos, the leading officials of that government opened negotiations with the United States for the independence of the Philippines under American protection. The proposal failed of acceptance. It will also be recalled that throughout the long period of our peaceful campaign for independence, all of our political parties always had in their platforms planks expressive of the desire of our people to obtain guarantees of our independence, after its concession by the sovereign power. In these platforms, especially in that of the Nationalist Party, the idea of the neutralization of the Philippines was repeatedly included.

On December 28, 1941, President Roosevelt promised that our independence would be established and protected. This was the first time that a high American official came out with the promise of protection after independence. This promise which gave great encouragement to our soldiers in Bataan, then fighting side by side with the Americans, was an important factor in our decision to transfer the seat of government to the United States to continue there the campaign for independence which seemed to be on the verge of defeat in the Philippines despite the loyalty and heroism of our people. With our reverses on the battlefield, the next phase would have to be fought in the field of diplomacy. If the leaders of the Commonwealth Government had committed the grave error of placing themselves within the power of the enemy, not only would every semblance of constitutional government have disappeared, but such a step would have given rise in the United States to the belief that our people had renounced their long-desired independence, the real independence pledged by America, and had resigned themselves to the status of a mere vassal of the Japanese Empire.

I take great satisfaction in informing our people that the promise of independence with American protection made by President Roosevelt on December 28, 1941, which was reiterated by him on August 13, 1943, was given legislative sanction when Congress approved S. J. Res. No. 93 and which became law on June 29, 1944. This Joint Resolution was introduced in the Congress of the United States at our request. We gave it our firm support while it was under consideration by both Houses of Congress and it was finally approved without any party division. In fact, the vote in both chambers was unanimous.

Thus, the protracted negotiations for our independence which were initiated by the first parliamentary mission to the United States in 1922 under the chairmanship of Manuel L. Quezon, at that time President of the Senate, were happily concluded under the authority of the Government of the Commonwealth which functioned in Washington, D. C., from May 13, 1942, to October 3, 1944. The independence of which Rizal and all the other martyrs in our history dreamed, and for the realization of which the heroes of our revolutions gave their lives, will not only be a reality but there is now positive assurance that the blessings of liberty which that independence will bring shall be permanent and enduring.

Foreseeing the serious problems brought about by the ravages of war and the imperative need for the rehabilitation and reconstruction of the country, your Commonwealth Government urged the passage of the necessary legislation by the Congress of the United States. Such legislation was approved on June 29, 1944, and under its provisions a Filipino Rehabilitation Commission has been created, composed of nine Americans and nine Filipinos. It is now sitting in Washington and is investigating all the war damages and other rehabilitation needs for proper action, and is formulating plans for our future economic relations with the United States.

Among its most urgent tasks, which likewise is an inescapable duty of the Commonwealth Government as a whole, is that of giving the utmost possible aid to the war victims in our country—the war veterans, especially those disabled or crippled; to the widows and orphans who have lost their loved ones in this holocaust of war and misery; to the lonely fathers and mothers who have sacrificed their beloved sons on the altar of freedom and democracy; to the peasant family who had lost its work animals and seen its productive fields devastated by the enemy; to the artisans and the factory workers who are now jobless and in want; to the homeless city dwellers, fire victims who now live in shambles and in crowded rooms unfit for human habitation; to the survivors of the wholesale massacres in Manila and other places in the Philippines.

In the realization of the ideal of independence guaranteed by the United States, the roots of which may be traced back to the glorious days of the Philippine Revolution, the attitude of the Filipinos in Bataan and throughout the whole country has been a vital factor. This is so because it has inaugurated a new era in Filipino-American relationship. It has sealed forever the ties of friendship and understanding binding the two peoples. In the American people it has created a permanent interest in our welfare, our freedom, and our security. Into our people it has infused a new spirit of high responsibility and it has strengthened the friendship and goodwill towards the United States. To the other democracies of the world, this attitude has brought the conviction that the Filipino people has already come of age and as a result, these nations, anticipating the date of our independence, have treated the Philippines as an independent nation so that throughout our stay in Washington, D. C., our representatives met the representatives of these nations on a basis of complete equality.

It is for this reason that in the first words I uttered upon my stepping on Philippine soil in Leyte in October, 1944, I affirmed that we came not only to restore the functions of the Government of the Commonwealth which existed at the time of the Japanese attack on December 8, 1941, but to reestablish the Commonwealth Government in a more advanced and progressive form. With this advanced status, we will enjoy new powers which we propose to exercise with care and with the welfare of our people as our sole guide. Obviously, this new situation imposes likewise wider responsibilities which we should shoulder without vacillation.

At this moment when we reestablish our Government in the capital of the Philippines, it is fitting that we make known the ideals and principles which will guide our actions.

We hereby reaffirm our faith in, and adherence to, the principles of freedom and democracy—a faith and an adherence born in the early days of our Malay history, nurtured by four hundred years of Western contact, consecrated by our revolutionary fathers, invigorated by the teachings of America, ratified in the constitutional processes of our Commonwealth, and now sanctified by the blood of the thousands of Filipino martyrs and heroes of the present war.

We condemn the totalitarian ideology which the enemy has sought to impose on us under a government by self-constituted or God-chosen rulers, and we hereby reaffirm our devotion to the principles of popular sovereignty, of a government of the people, for the people, and by the people.

We believe in the superiority of a responsible democracy, peaceful and law-abiding, loyal to its institutions and determined to fight for its way of life, over a degenerate fascism and totalitarianism with its regimented lives, devoid of wills of their own.

We shall reestablish in our country a social and political system which is founded on mutual faith, honesty and confidence and not on suspicion, corruption and fear, and in which government officials and employees are not the masters of the people but their servants, acting as necessary instrumentalities through which the public good and the individual welfare may be advanced and safeguarded.

We denounce the barbarous doctrine of collective responsibility for individual acts under which thousands of innocent men and women have met their death.

We stand for the individual liberties, guaranteed by our Constitution, for the right of every man and woman to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

We reject the theory of the existence of chosen or superior races; we hold to the self-evident truth that no particular race has a monopoly on the capacity for progress and self-government.

We believe in the universality of culture, and we shall seek the implements of progress in whatever source they may be found.

We reaffirm our faith in the principle of Philippine-American collaboration, its workability having been successfully tested both in peace and in war. This principle has been responsible for the unparalleled progress of our country during the last 46 years. It is a guarantee for the permanence of Christian civilization in the Orient.

We reiterate our adherence to the Atlantic Charter signed by the United Nations of which we are a member; for in that document they expressed their desire to effect no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed will of the people concerned, and "to respect the right of all people to choose the form of government under which they will live."

We believe in the efficacy of the principle of collective security as a guarantee of world peace and the best assurance of the settlement of international disputes not by the arbitrament of arms but by the processes of peace and justice. The legislation providing for the use, after the independence of the Philippines, by the United States of naval and air bases here for the mutual protection of the Philippines and the United States is a concrete example of the application of this principle. It is a mutual agreement designed not only for the protection of both nations but as a contribution to the peace of the Pacific region and the collective security of the nations of the world.

We stand for a new world free from want and fear, provided with greater safeguards for lasting peace and offering ample opportunities for friendly negotiations and judicial adjudication of international disputes and the self-development of nations. We are ready to take part, in close association with the United States, in any international pact based on justice and directed toward the organization and preservation of the peace of the world.

On these principles we take our stand.

By the miseries, the sufferings and the sacrifices undergone by our people during their long night of captivity;

By the smoke that even now rises from our ravaged cities, towns and villages;

By the blood, Filipino as well as American, which was poured out so unstintedly at Bataan and on Corregidor; in the hills of Leyte, the mountains and plains of Luzon, and all over the Philippines;

We call on the God of Nations to witness, for ourselves and for a people welded into one in the crucible of fire, this pledge to consecrate to the determined prosecution of this war until final victory is achieved, our lives, and that which our fathers have bequeathed to us and without which life would be meaningless—our sacred honor.

Following is the speech delivered by Secretary Maximo M. Kalaw of the Department of Instruction and Information, inaugurating the Commonwealth Hour over Radio Manila, on March 15, 1945:

I am very happy to inaugurate this Commonwealth Hour. During this hour, we shall present news and describe activities pertaining to the Commonwealth Government, and we shall give, besides, musical programs.

Over the ruins of Manila, formerly the pride of the Orient, we have reestablished the Commonwealth Government, and in all the other ruined cities and villages in the Philippines, the various branches and political subdivisions of this government are being set up again.

By the very fact that our cities and villages have been done to waste, by the very fact that innocent Filipino men, women and children have been massacred, by the very fact that our homes have been violated and destroyed, the enemy has simply shown his utter inability to subdue the spirit of resistance of our people.

As President Osmeña established the Commonwealth Government and administered the oath of office to his newly formed Cabinet, he set down certain basic principles and ideals which I would call the new Philippine Ideology. They were enunciated by the undisputed leader of the Filipino people of today.

President Sergio Osmeña is, as you all know, not a newcomer in the political life of our country. During the early years of American Occupation, when our capacity for self-government was under a question mark and serious doubts existed as to whether we could produce leaders of state, President Sergio Osmeña was elected Speaker of the National Assembly. That was in 1907. As such Speaker, Mr. Osmeña was immediately recognized by the Washington administration as the leader of the Filipino participation in the government, next in rank only to the Governor-General. He retained that leadership until 1923, and the progressive legislation that was enacted at that time as well as his participation in the Administrative Council of the government as Vice-Chairman of the Council of State since 1916, are already indestructible monuments to his political career. From 1923 until last year, President Osmeña was the collaborator of President Quezon until the latter's death.

When the Filipino people elected the President of the Philippines in the general elections of 1941, they chose really two presidents: President Quezon for the first two years, and President Osmeña for the succeeding two years; and it is of record that President Osmeña received a greater number of votes than President Quezon. Their terms of office were extended by the Congress of the United States in order to give President Quezon a chance to serve longer during the American regime. During the Emergency, President Quezon died and so President Osmeña succeeded him. President Osmeña, therefore, holds his office on two legal bases—first, by virtue of the election of 1941; and, second, by virtue of the extension of his term of office by the Congress of the United States. It can be truly said therefore that when President Osmeña assumed the presidency in 1944, he simply came into his own. As the undisputed leader of the people at this stage of our history, it would therefore be of interest to know the principles and ideals he has set down to guide him in his administration of the affairs of his people.

I shall read to you the new twelve-point Philippine Ideology. This new ideology embraces four cardinal points which may be termed the principles of democracy, the principles of freedom, the principles of the new cultural orientation of the Philippines, and the principles embraced in the Filipino-American collaboration. Here is the new Philippine Ideology:

"We hereby reaffirm our faith in, and adherence to, the principles of freedom and democracy—a faith and an adherence born in the early days of our Malay history, nurtured by four hundred years of Western contact, consecrated by our revolutionary fathers, invigorated by the teachings of America, ratified in the constitutional processes of our Commonwealth, and now sanctified by the blood of the thousands of Filipino martyrs and heroes of the present war.

"We condemn the totalitarian ideology which the enemy has sought to impose on us under a government by self-constituted or God-chosen rulers, and we hereby reaffirm our devotion to the principle of popular sovereignty, of a government of the people, for the people, and by the people.

"We believe in the superiority of a responsible democracy, peaceful and law-abiding, loyal to its institutions and determined to fight for its way of life over a degenerate fascism and totalitarianism with its regimented lives, devoid of wills of their own.

"We shall reestablish in our country a social and political system which is founded on mutual faith, honesty and confidence and not on suspicion, corruption and fear.

"We denounce the barbarous doctrine of collective responsibility for individual acts under which thousands of innocent men and women have met their death.

"We stand for the individual liberties, guaranteed by our Constitution, for the right of every man and woman to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"We reject the theory of the existence of chosen or superior races. We hold to the self-evident truth that no particular race has a monopoly on the capacity for progress and self-government.

"We believe in the universality of culture, and we shall seek the implements of progress in whatever source they may be found.

"We reaffirm our faith in the principle of Philippine-American collaboration, which has worked successfully both in peace and in war, which has been responsible for the unparalleled progress of our country and which is a guarantee for the permanence of Christian civilization in the Far East.

"We reiterate our adherence to the Atlantic Charter signed by the United Nations of which we are a member.

"We believe in the efficacy of the principle of collective security as a guarantee of world peace and in the settlement of international disputes not by the arbitrament of arms but by the processes of peace and justice.

"We stand for a new world free from want and fear, provided with greater safeguards for lasting peace and offering ample opportunities for friendly negotiations and the self-development of nations."

After stating this pledge, President Osmeña concluded his address as follows:

"On these principles we take our stand.

"By the miseries, the sufferings and the sacrifices undergone by our people during their long night of captivity;

"By the smoke that even now rises from our ravaged cities, towns and villages;

"By the blood, Filipino as well as American, which was poured out so unstintedly at Bataan and on Corregidor; in the hills of Leyte, the mountains and plains of Luzon, and all over the Philippines;

"We call on the God of Nations to witness, for ourselves and for a people welded into one in the crucible of fire, this pledge to consecrate to the determined prosecution of this war until final victory is achieved, our lives, that which our fathers have bequeathed to us and without which life would be meaningless—our sacred honor."

Following is the speech delivered by President Osmeña over the Voice of Freedom on November 23, 1944:

Since my return to the Philippines a month ago it has been my good fortune to meet a number of guerrilla leaders. The world will long remember the epic stand of the guerrillas. After the fall of Bataan and Corregidor and the tragic defeat of the Allied armies in Asia, our people found themselves pitted against the might of Japan. Then the guerrilla movement came into being. It was the people's continued fight against the invaders. The guerrillas, almost without arms at the beginning, hungry and unclothed, gave battle to the enemy from every nook and corner of the land. For three seemingly interminable years and despite unbelievable hardships, they carried the torch of freedom, confident that America would not fail them and that MacArthur would fulfill his pledge to return.

Our nation is justly proud of the guerrillas and the Philippine Government shall see to it that they are properly rewarded. We have taken the initial step of incorporating all guerrillas recognized by the Military Command into the Philippine Army, with United States Army pay.

But in our praise of the guerrillas we should not be forgetful of the loyal civilian population that was left behind to face the ire of the invader and support the guerrillas. It was not possible for all to evade the enemy: the fate of the immense majority was to bear the manacles of enslavement. Unfortunately, this has given rise to different attitudes and actions in relation to the Japanese rule causing some misunderstandings among our people. This state of affairs has created one of the most serious problems with which our Government is confronted.

We cannot close our eyes to the realities of the Japanese occupation. It is cruel and harsh. An arbitrary government has been imposed on the Filipino people by the sword and the initial misfortune of American and Filipino arms left the majority of eighteen million Filipinos no other recourse but to submit to a despotic régime if they were to survive. Not all public officials could take to the hills to carry on the heroic struggle. Some had to remain in their posts to maintain a semblance of government, to protect the population from the oppressor to the extent possible by human ingenuity and to comfort the people in their misery. Had their services not been available, the Japanese would either have themselves governed directly and completely or utilized unscrupulous Filipino followers capable of any treason to their people. The result would have been calamitous and the injuries inflicted to our body politic beyond cure.

The problem under consideration must be solved with justice and dignity. Every case should be examined impartially and decided on its own merits. Persons holding public office during enemy occupation, for the most part, fall within three categories; those prompted by a desire to protect the people, those actuated by fear of enemy reprisals, and those motivated by disloyalty to our government and cause. The motives which caused the retention of the office and conduct while in office, rather than the sole fact of its occupation, will be the criteria upon which such persons will be judged.

Those charged with giving aid and comfort to the enemy, whether office holders or private citizens, with being traitors and disloyal to the governments of the Philippines and of the United States will be dealt with in accordance with law. But for the common good and our national welfare, I appeal to all the citizens of the Philippines to support their government in meeting its responsibilities by lawful procedures. Persons in possession of information on acts of disloyalty to the Commonwealth Government or that of the United States should report it to the authorities. But under no circumstances should any person or group take the law into their hands.

Ours is a constitutional government, ours is a community educated in the norms of a Christian civilization. Due respect for the law, rigid adherence to those principles established in civilized countries, complete obedience to the decisions of the courts—all these involve forms of character and high moral attributes that are the possession of enlightened countries like ours. On the threshold of occupying a sovereign place in the concert of free nations, we must live up to our responsibilities. We must prove our ability to maintain domestic peace and our capacity to mete out justice. Precisely when the eyes of the civilized world are focused on our country, we cannot allow acts of personal revenge and misguided zeal to cast a reflection on our civilization and our ability to maintain an orderly government. Ours is a government by law: the splendor of its majesty must never be dimmed in our land.

The dignity and courage of the Filipino people in the face of calamity have elicited the admiration of the world. With a long tradition of peace, the Filipino nevertheless faced war bravely. He died heroically when death was demanded of him by the exigencies of battle. Under the tyranny of the Japanese he toiled to survive. But when the forces of redemption were compelled to rain death on his home and destroy his property in order to dislodge the enemy, he was never heard to complain. He realized that the price of freedom is high and was ready to pay the cost. Today he labors on the wharfs of Tacloban, tills the fields of Leyte and renders war service everywhere without hesitation or regrets, with the enthusiasm of a human being who is again free to shape his destiny.

As a people we have come of age. We must move forward, just and firm but merciful and humane, closely united, animated by the same social aspirations to happiness, bound together as a political state by the wise dispositions of our Constitution and our laws. God helping me, I shall strive to this end.
